NOTES ON NEWS OF THE DAY.

"New York and vicinity" contributions to the Johnstown sufferers have reached $770,000, and are expected to go up to $1,000,000. The "vicinity" includes Brooklyn and all portions of the state lying around the Sound, the harbor and the lower Hudson.

The par value of the Cambria Iron Company's shares at Johnstown is $50. Before the flood they sold for $110, but they then dropped to $70. Now they are back to $90 and going higher. The power of American enterprises to recover from disaster could have no finer illustration.

The Cincinnati Times-Star (Dem.) informs Gov. Hill that no man ever got into the office of President as a beer barrel, and notifies him that the country is not going to break the record on his account. Hill's Presidential boom is all crowded within a radius of ten miles from the centre of New York city.

STANLEY has again been heard from. The latest date is December 24, when he had just arrived at Urur, on Lake Victoria Nyanzi. The letters published in April brought the dates up to August 17th, when he was at Bonalya or Unarya. His later journey to the lake resulted in great losses of men by disease and famine.

A COLONY of Mormons from Salt Lake City having settled in the Northwest Territory of Canada, the papers there have discovered that they are practicing polygamy, and are calling upon the government not to sell them any more land. This is to be regretted, as it would be a great kindness to the rest of the world to allow these Mormons to remain where they would freeze to death.

COL. ARCHIE BAXTER, appointed by President Harrison yesterday to be United States Marshal for the Northern district of New York, entered the Union army at the age of seventeen and served through the war, receiving a bad wound at Resaca. He has been County Clerk of both Steuben and Chemung counties, and was once the Republican candidate of his district for Congress. He takes the place of Walter S. Dunn, a Democrat.

The grand jury selected to pass upon the guilt or innocence of Alexander Sullivan has been selected from the ranks of Chicago's intelligent business men, and includes bankers, merchants, manufacturers, contractors and professional men. Of the twenty-four in the list, only two are Irishmen. Sullivan remains in jail, and yesterday his appetite failed. With all of his strength as an Irish leader, he quails in the face of American justice.

Gov. HILL's quarrel with Secretary Carr in 1885 caused him to throw away $120,000 of federal money, and by it he cheated the state out of a census and saved the tax-payers all told about $9,000. That $120,000 would all have been paid out to the people of the state for work upon the census. It was available in no other year, and was lost beyond recovery. Those Democratic papers that are reviving a recollection of these things by taking up the enumeration question exhibit a great deal more zeal than discretion.

CALVIN S. BRICE was Mr. Cleveland's own choice last year for the chairmanship of the Democratic campaign committee. He was a very obscure personage up to that time, but Mr. Cleveland had learned that he had a big bank account and was a successful organizer of money forces. His elevation to the chairmanship of the national committee is also Mr. Cleveland's act, and binds the party machine to the ex-President for another campaign. Brice does not know the difference between protection and free trade any better than Mr. Cleveland did when he went into the Presidency, but he can buy more votes than any other man with a given sum of money, and that is what he was wanted for.

There had better get together in the hole that they went into on the 23d of November, and from which they have not yet crawled out. That hole was big enough for the whole Democratic party and the Cleveland boys besides. There is even more room in it to-day than then, because of the natural shrinkage of the party after defeat.—KINGSTON Freeman Rep.

Does THE FREEMAN really mean that the whole Democratic party was defeated in November of last year? Does it not know that this state of New York elected a Democratic governor, and threw away forever the issue of free trade? Can it call that defeat? No, sir; that was regeneration.—ALBANY Times.

So it was regeneration, was it, to throw away free trade and take up the issue of free rum? Here in Kingston, when this Democratic Governor came to make a speech, in the procession got up in his honor, the beer wagons came out loaded with their usual freight, and dispensed it by the glass to all good Democrats who showed commendable thirst, without money and without price. This undoubtedly obscured the free trade issue for the time; indeed, it appeared to throw a general obscuration over the free trade intellect. But we never heard it called "regeneration" before, though it happened right here.

WHILE Americans are discussing the enumeration question, and charging that the Republican Legislature of 1885 proposed an "extravagant" census, it is well to recall a few facts. The appropriation for the census voted by the Legislature was $40,000. Gov. Hill caused it to be understood that he would sign no appropriation larger than $10,000, though he called for a civil service examination of the enumerators and was willing to sign an extra allowance of $7,000 for this service. He would pay $7,000 for an examination of men who would not be permitted to do more than $10,000 worth of work. He vetoed the census bill and called an extra session which cost the state $10,000. Last year he called an extra session again, and held the Legislature together two or three days on this question, at a cost of $3,000 or $4,000 more. The census proposed by the Legislature has therefore a balance against it of $9,000 or $10,000. And for the facts to be furnished by this census the federal government was pledged by law to pay $120,000. In other words, the state would have got a $100,000 census for $40,000. It has expended $14,000 and got no census at all, and it had got one on the Governor's plan. It would have expended $17,000 more. The Governor's financing on the subject would have been almost as disastrous to the state if permitted, as his vetoes have been to his party.

GENERAL TELEGRAPH NEWS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., June 13.—The first real work under the supervision of the State commenced this morning at 6 o'clock. The whistle at the Cambria Iron & Steel Works was the signal for the men to commence, and about 1,500 started in with their picks and shovels. The early morning was warm and cloudy, and the fumes and odors from the decayed bodies was almost unbearable. As the morning advanced the weather grew warmer, and by 10 o'clock the sun was shining brightly and every one on the ground was hard at work. During the morning a crowd of worthless loafers, in some manner, secured an entrance to the town and wanted to inaugurate a strike among the workmen. Some of the laborers were already dissatisfied at having new bosses over them and only wanted a chance to complain. James McKnight, State Contractor, got knowledge of the trouble brewing and went among the men and informed them he would have no "kicking" and that all those who wished to quit would have to do so immediately, and about 100 of the men left, but the loafers remained around and McKnight went to General Hastings and demanded protection for the men. A detachment of militia from the Fourteenth Regiment was detailed to the scene and all day long the men refused to issue an order to the soldiers not to admit any one to Johnstown proper without an order.

The business men of the town seem to have awakened to their senses and this morning a number of them were preparing to start over again in business. Two grocery stores were started near the Pennsylvania Railroad freight station. Both places were doing a large business and this encouraged other merchants to start up and the probabilities are that inside of a week 100 stores will be in operation. Already two barbers shops and one jewelry store have been opened.

General Hastings was up early this morning and kept hustling for several hours to get things right started. He said: "As yet I do not know how many men are here but I suppose there must be 1,500. We intend to put as many men to work as can be worked properly. I do not want to employ any but Pennsylvania men and would like to get as many Johnstown people at work as possible."

General Hastings is getting everything down to a system. There will be but one morgue, one hospital and one headquarters. Everything has now been centralized and it is easy to get at the facts. Captain Seers, of the United States Corps of Engineers, and Captain Burbank, of West Point, have laid out the different boroughs in five districts, and competent men have been appointed to take charge of each district.

The general opinion among well-informed people here now is that the loss of life will be between 3,000 and 4,000. Five bodies were recovered this morning. They were all of women and only two were identified. Mrs. William Dayton and Mrs. Alice Jones. The others were held for two hours for identification and then buried.

MINOR NOTES OF THE FLOOD.

The Secretary of the Treasury yesterday appointed John Hughson a skilled laborer in the Treasury Department at $720 per annum. Halford and her daughter were enabled to reach a place of safety in the mountains.

Mrs. Margaret Gay, of East Greensburg, has three photographs found on the bodies of flood victims. One is indorsed: "Charles A. B., Harris Opera Company, season '84-'85." Another bears the name "John Simpson."

James S. Hammond helped a Johnstown gentleman to open his safe in search of his wife's ring. The ring was not there, but soon after the body of the wife was found lying behind the safe, with the ring on her finger.

The Finance Committee of the New York City Relief Fund for the Conemaugh Valley has requested General W. T. Sherman to visit Harrisburg and ascertain from Governor Beaver where the most aid is required.

George Washington colored; white being pulled from the Williamsport flood into a second story window, begged his rescuers to be careful, and not tear his last shirt in the world.

In the Johnstown disaster the Odd Fellows lost 33 members, 34 wives and 109 children; 300 members lost their household goods, and 225 owned houses and stores which were lost.

An official canvass of flood survivors was begun at Johnstown yesterday and will be completed in two days.

Forest Fires in the Northwest.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

TWO HARBORS, Minn., June 13.—Forest fires raged yesterday along the Iron Bridge Railroad in every direction. This city was enveloped in smoke. It is reported the section house at Tower Junction was burned. A strong and hot wind blew from the west, and the smoke was driven into the city. The latest report from Ely says the most destructive fire of the season is raging there and from 12 to 15 buildings have been destroyed and much damage done to railroad property.

SUPERIOR, Wis., June 13.—A terrible fire is sweeping the forests south and west of here, and unless the weather soon changes the loss will be enormous. Already over $500,000 worth of pine has been destroyed. The districts tributary to the Nemadji and St. Louis Rivers in Wisconsin and Minnesota are suffering terribly. The smoke from the burning districts obscures the sun and renders difficult the entrance of vessels into the harbor. Most of the pine on the Cloquet Reservation has been burned. A strong wind is blowing from the south-west and rural villages are threatened. The fire is raging from the St. Croix to Northern Pacific Junction.

A Scare at Wilkesbarre.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., June 13.—For some time past the miners in the employ of the Lehigh & Wilkesbarre Coal Company have been engaged in robbing pillars in what is known in the Holbeck vein, 800 feet below the surface of the Second Ward of this city, which is about a mile from the center of the town. The fire engines and the miners noticed a few days ago that the earth in the Holbeck mine was settling, and thereupon they began removing such mine property as could be gotten out, including a large number of mules and a portion of the valuable instruments and mining tools.

A Bogus Johnstown Sufferer.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

PHILADELPHIA, June 13.—J. Jackson, alias C. J. O'Neill, was yesterday heard boasting to some companions in Franklin Square that he had palmed himself off as a Johnstown sufferer on the Germantown Hotel. Jackson, by the way, is a well known representation that he had lost his wife and all his children but a little girl who accompanied him, had collected some money. An officer took him in charge and Magistrate Lennon held him for trial. Jackson recently finished a six-months' term in jail.

A Cyclone in New Jersey.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

THENTON, N. J., June 13.—A cyclonic storm passed over Millville, N. J., at an early hour yesterday, leaving ruin in its track. The wind blew furiously, there being hardly a street in the city where trees, chimneys and telegraph poles were not blown over. On the farms adjacent to the city hundreds of fruit trees were uprooted. On the farm of John P. Miller the wind picked up a large corn crib, and carrying it against a barn 20 feet away, damaged both buildings.

An Elopement Wife Drowned at Johnstown.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

ALLEGANY, Pa., June 13.—Joseph Ashgood, who eloped from Stratford on May 24 with Mrs. Joseph Hollobach, returned and was today lodged in jail here on three charges, two made by Mrs. Hollobach's husband and one by Ashgood's wife. The couple had lived together at Johnstown, and Mrs. Hollobach was drowned in the flood. Ashgood then returned.

A Pig Tobacco Trust Formed.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

ST. LOUIS, June 13.—The latest is a trust of $25,000,000 which takes in all the plug tobacco manufacturers of the United States. The scheme is claimed to be one of self-protection. All manufacturers will sell out to one company and then take stock to the amount of the valuation of their plant. Leggett & Meyers and Hammond & Company, of this city, and P. Lorillard, of New York, are at the head of the affair.

Killed While Trying to Save His Friends.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

TWO HARBORS, Minn., June 13.—Charles Johnson, employed at the Minnesota Mines, was killed Tuesday night. A dump-car at the top of the shaft broke from its fastenings and rushed toward the shaft. Johnson, in an effort to save his friends at the bottom of the pit, threw himself against the car but was thrown over the edge of the platform and fell 150 feet down the shaft. Death was instantaneous.

Disinfectants Reach Lock Haven.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

LOCK HAVEN, Pa., June 13.—Heavy showers of rain have retarded the cleaning process of the Charles B. Dudley, Medical Inspector of the State Board of Health, has

The train was thrown from the track, the cars wrecked and the track so obstructed that it was not cleared for travel until yesterday afternoon.

Printers Compare Notes.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

DENVER, Col., June 13.—The only business of importance transacted at the Typographical Convention, yesterday, was the consideration of several propositions offered by various cities for the location of a Home for Aged Printers, the most interesting coming from Colorado Springs. The Convention donated $300 to the Johnstown sufferers.

HILL ON HIS HOBBY AGAIN.

It looks as though the Democrats of this state were planning for a "campaign of intellect" next fall, in spite of the great disaster that overtook them in November last, in consequence of the instructions delivered to the people on political duty by Roger Q. Mills, the Breckinridges, Taubee, Allen, McMillin and other over-forgotten rebels. Nothing else can explain the sudden revival of the old discussion concerning an "enumeration" and "apportionment" which was inaugurated by the New York Sun a few days ago, and is now filling a great deal of the editorial space of the Democratic organs of the interior. It is the one lone battery behind which the Governor retreats and opens fire, when some misdeed like the veto of the Crosby and Velder bills makes an open position before the people too hot for him. A vigorous renewal of the apportionment discussion is expected to cause the people to forget several things that the Governor does not wish them to remember. And he probably believes that the disagreement over the census bill happened so long ago that the people have forgotten it.

We are attracted to this subject by some remarkable assertions in the Utica Observer, which has undertaken to support the Governor's position. "The Republicans of the Legislature passed a bill appropriating an extravagant sum of money for the taking of the census." The rural members are accused of a design to rob New York and Brooklyn in the passage of this census bill, because those two cities are compelled "to pay one-half of the taxes of the state, with only one-third of the Legislative representation at Albany." "They cut down the canal appropriation—a thing of substantial advantage to the whole state—and they pass a census bill which no honest Governor could approve." And so on for half a column or more, in language more bitter than the provocation warrants.

This sort of argument is not going to prevail. The people of New York and Brooklyn do not pay one-half the tax in proportion to their wealth which rural communities pay, while these same communities pay a steady stream of tribute to the metropolis, poured in through the canal and other public works that they are taxed to support. They know that whereas the farmer in Orange and Delaware county makes a half-cent profit on the quart of milk produced by his labor and capital, the middlemen and dealers make two or three cents without any capital and scarcely any labor. They see great fortunes made in the city upon their crops of grain, wool, fruit, etc., while they do not realize legal interest upon the investment. The Observer and all other rural Democratic sheets might as well take notice first as last that they are not going to make Democratic votes among their constituents by telling them that New York and Brooklyn are oppressed with unjust taxes, and that it is their duty to give up their rights in the Legislature and to let New York and Brooklyn take control there, in order that their own taxes may be heavier and those of the great cities lighter. Neither do they understand that constitutional apportionment is based on property, as the Observer evidently supposes.

Then again, the Observer is unjust in claiming that Mr. Hill is the only honest Governor who ever happened to hold the office when the decennial period came around. The census bill passed by the Legislature of 1885, which we are told "no honest Governor could approve," was precisely the same bill except in regard to that Samuel J. Tilden approved in 1875, Reuben E. Fenton in 1865, Myron H. Clark in 1855, Silas Wright in 1845, and William L. Marcy in 1835. Three of these Governors were Democrats and among the very ablest and purest statesmen that the state ever produced. The idea that a "census" is unconstitutional was the discovery of David B. Hill, after the state had been doing business for nearly a hundred years on the plan adopted by the Legislature of 1885. And the Governor vetoed the bill simply because the appointment of the enumerators would have placed a little paltry patronage in the hands of Secretary of State Carr, a Republican.

Gov. Hill vetoed the census bill that three other Democratic Governors had approved. Then he called the Legislature into extra session at an expense of $10,000 to the state. The same bill that he had vetoed was re-passed and returned to him, and he vetoed it again. Thus the constitutional year for the taking of either an enumeration or census went by, and will not recur till 1895. It is quite probable that the Democratic party will have to wait till that year for a new Legislative distribution. And when it is made it will be of very little benefit to them, for Brooklyn and the whole of Long Island will be a Republican section long before, and the Democratic party will be crowded into the slum and squalid precincts of the city of New York.

ANYTHING TO WIN.

The Brooklyn Exile seconds the call of the New York Sun for the Democratic party to "get together" on the platform of 1884. It argues that that platform embodied the views of Thomas Jefferson, and was a more elaborate and faithful exposition of the views of the Democratic party than the platform of 1888. And it is the Exile's belief that if this platform instead of the views in Mr. Cleveland's free trade message had been adopted, Mr. Cleveland himself would still be in the White House.

"Anything to win" is the high moral principle that underlies this advice. The Democratic party now has on its books two platform forms, which may be expected to do alternate duty in coming campaigns. On the platform of 1884 the party won "by an eyelash;" on that of 1888 it was badly defeated. Hence an effort will be made to have the older platform do service in 1892. As the party is likely then to suffer another defeat, that of 1888 will be brought out and burnished up for 1896, on the plea that the party's next-to-the-last whipping was not so terrible as the last one.

But the people begin to understand what Democratic platforms are made for. The platform of 1880 declared for "a tariff for revenue only," and though Mr. Randall went out into the canvass and declared that his party had no designs upon the industries of the country, and though Gen. Hancock pronounced the tariff only a local issue, the Morison horizontal reduction bill was reated upon it in the forty-eighth Congress. The platform of 1884 promised to "revise the tariff in a spirit of fairness to all interests," and the regard which the Democratic party had for this pledge was shown in the forty-ninth Congress by the introduction of the second Morrison bill as the only measure of tariff legislation which the majority would permit to be considered, and in the fiftieth Congress by the introduction, support and actual passage of the Mills bill. The first Morrison bill was a venomous attack on the industries of the country; the second Morrison bill was a meander and more ruinous measure than the first; the Mills bill contemplated larger destruction than the two Morrison bills together. And yet this bill was projected and carried through at that precious platform of 1884. The country will not forget the breadth of space between promise and performance upon this platform if it is brought out again in 1892.

The platform of 1888 was the first honest expression of the party's purpose in convention. It was forced upon the party by Mr. Cleveland, a man who, with all his defects, is straightforward, courageous, and despises hypocrisy. The Mills bill was before him when he wrote that remarkable message, and he was under pledge to use the entire power of his office to drive it through. He scorned, while doing this work for the free traders, to step upon a platform that would make him an ass before the American people so inconsistent as to be ridiculous. Mr. Cleveland, in unmasking the hypocrisy of his party and compelling it to come before the country under its true colors, rendered a great public service that is not likely to be forgotten. And his firmness and candor caused a platform to be evolved from which the party can never retreat as long as it is dominated by the old Confederates of the South.

The Southern Confederacy put free trade into its constitution and made that constitution so difficult of amendment that the principle could not have been eliminated in a century if the rebellion had succeeded and founded a new nation. Free trade was a great and vital principle at the South, and it is to-day the only hope of the Bourbons against an invasion of Northern ideas, capital, enterprise and politics. The South rules the Democratic party in Congress by its majority in every caucus. The South may consent in 1892 to put the party on the platform of 1884 in the hope of getting back the Presidency and Congress, but when Congress meets it will be on hand with its free trade bills and its various devices for menacing, worrying and embarrassing Northern industries, just as it was after it had permitted the party to put forth its hypocritical promises eight years ago. The party may cry for protection in Presidential campaigns, but elsewhere and at all other times its voice is for free trade. And as long as the South rules the party this must continue. The effect will not be disastrous, if the people only learn to know a hypocrite when they see him.

HILL ON HIS HOBBY AGAIN.

It looks as though the Democrats of this state were planning for a "campaign of intellect" next fall, in spite of the great disaster that overtook them in November last, in consequence of the instructions delivered to the people on political duty by Roger C. Mills, the Breckinridge, Taubee, Allen, McMillin and other over-forgotten rebels. Nothing else can explain the sudden revival of the old discussion concerning an "enumeration" and "apportionment," which was inaugurated by the New York Sun a few days ago, and is now filling a great deal of the editorial space of the Democratic organs of the interior. It is the one lone battery behind which the Governor retreats and opens fire, when some misdeed like the veto of the Crosby and Vedder bills makes an open position before the people too hot for him. A vigorous renewal of the apportionment discussion is expected to cause the people to forget several things that the Governor does not wish them to remember. And he probably believes that the disagreement over the census bill happened so long ago that the people have forgotten it.

We are attracted to this subject by some remarkable assertions in the Utica Observer, which has undertaken to support the Governor's position. "The Republicans of the Legislature passed a bill appropriating an extravagant sum of money for the taking of the census." The rural members are accused of a design to rob New York and Brooklyn in the passage of this census bill, because those two cities are compelled "to pay one-half of the taxes of the state, with only one-third of the Legislative representation at Albany." "They cut down the canal appropriation—a thing of substantial advantage to the whole state, and they pass a census bill which no honest Governor could approve." And so on for half a column or more, in language more bitter than the provocation warrants.

This sort of argument is not going to prevail. The people of New York and Brooklyn do not pay one-half the tax in proportion to their wealth which rural communities pay, while these same communities pay a steady stream of tribute to the metropolis, poured in through the canal and other public works that they are taxed to support. They know that whereas the farmer in Orange and Delaware counties makes a half-cent profit on the quart of milk produced by his labor and capital, the middlemen and dealers make two or three cents without any capital and scarcely any labor. They see great fortunes made in the city upon their crops of grain, wool, fruit, etc., while they do not realize legal interest upon the investment. The Observer and all other rural Democratic sheets might as well take notice first as last that they are not going to make Democratic votes among their constituents by telling them that New York and Brooklyn are oppressed with unjust taxes, and that it is their duty to give up their rights in the Legislature and to let New York and Brooklyn take control there, in order that their own taxes may be heavier and those of the great cities lighter. Neither do they understand that constitutional apportionment is based on property, as the Observer evidently supposes.

Then again, the Observer is unjust in claiming that Mr. Hill is the only honest Governor who ever happened to hold the office when the decennial period came around. The census bill passed by the Legislature of 1885, which we are told "no honest Governor could approve," was precisely the same bill except in regard to dates that Samuel J. Tilden approved in 1875, Reuben E. Fenton in 1865, Myron H. Clark in 1855, Silas Wright in 1845, and William L. Marcy in 1835. Three of these Governors were Democrats and among the very ablest and purest statesmen that the state ever produced. The idea that a "census" is unconstitutional was the discovery of David B. Hill, after the state had been doing business for nearly a hundred years on the plan adopted by the Legislature of 1885. And the Governor vetoed the bill simply because the appointment of the enumerators would have placed a little paltry patronage in the hands of Secretary of State Carr, a Republican.

Gov. Hill vetoed the census bill that three other Democratic Governors had approved. Then he called the Legislature into extra session at an expense of $10,000 to the state. The same bill that he had vetoed was re-passed and returned to him, and he vetoed it again. Thus the constitutional year for the taking of either an enumeration or census went by, and will not recur till 1895. It is quite probable that the Democratic party will have to wait till that year for a new Legislative distribution. And when it is made it will be of very little benefit to them, for Brooklyn and the whole of Long Island will be a Republican section long before, and the Democratic party will be crowded into the slum and squalid precincts of the city of New York.

ANYTHING TO WIN.

The Brooklyn Enterprise seconds the call of the New York Sun for the Democratic party to "get together" on the platform of 1884. It argues that that platform embodied the views of Thomas Jefferson, and was a more elaborate and faithful exposition of the views of the Democratic party than the platform of 1888. And it is the Enterprise's belief that if this platform of 1884 were adopted, the Democratic party would still be in the White House.

"Anything to win" is the high moral principle that underlies this advice. The Democratic party now has on its books two platform forms, which may be expected to do alternate duty in coming campaigns. On the platform of 1884 the party won "by an eyelash," hence that of 1888 it was badly defeated. Hence an effort will be made to have the older platform do service in 1892. As the party is likely then to suffer another defeat, that of 1888 will be brought out and burlesqued up for 1896, on the plea that the party's next-to-the last whipping was not so terrible as the last one.

But the people begin to understand what Democratic platforms are made for. The platform of 1880 declared for "a tariff for revenue only," and though Mr. Randall went out into the canvass and declared that his party had no designs upon the industries of the country, and though Gen. Hancock pronounced the tariff only a local issue, the Mor-

tion horizontal reduction bill was reared upon it in the forty-eighth Congress. The platform of 1884 promised to "revise the tariff in a spirit of fairness to all interests," and the regard which the Democratic party had for this pledge was shown in the forty-ninth Congress by the introduction of the second Morrill bill as the only measure of tariff legislation which the majority would permit to be considered, and in the fiftieth Congress by the introduction, support and actual passage of the Mills bill. The first Morrill bill was a venomous attack on the industries of the country; the second Morrill bill was a measure and more ruinous measure than the first; the Mills bill contemplated larger destruction than the two Morrill bills together. And yet this bill was projected and carried through on that precious platform of 1884. The country will not forget the breadth of space between promise and performance upon this platform if it is brought out again in 1892.

The platform of 1888 was the first honest expression of the party's purpose in convention. It was forced upon the party by Mr. Cleveland, a man who, with all his defects, is straightforward, courageous, and despises hypocrisy. The Mills bill was before him when he wrote that remarkable message, and he was under pledge to use the entire power of his office to drive it through. ## FROM POINTS FAR AND NEAR.

THE NEWS OF THE WORLD LAST NIGHT AND THIS FORENOON.

An Uproar in the French Senate—To Suppress the Slave Trade in Africa—The Electric Sugar Frauds—Cuba Wants Self-Government—A Large Fire in Iowa.

There was a great uproar in the French Chamber of Deputies yesterday, caused by the debate regarding the arrest of Boulanger at Angoulême. Golebert des Segrais declared that the arrest had aroused the indignation of the people. They would, he said, persist in exercising the liberty, notwithstanding the efforts of the Government to deprive them of it. In reply, M. Constans, Minister of the Interior, said that the Government had ordered a display of military force at Angoulême because the people in receiving certain political leaders had obstructed the highways. Demonstrations like that of Sunday were generally the work of paid agitators. At Angoulême agitators had even been summoned from adjoining departments. M. Constans said that M. Drouelle, one of the persons charged with rioting, had seized a Commissary of Police by the collar and had injured his foot. The Commissary had only performed his duty in arresting him and those who assisted him. The Minister then declared that the Government would send more policemen to Angoulême if such a meeting was again attempted. M. Laur shouted: "Just try and I will blow the brains out of the first one who approaches me." M. Laur was called to order. M. Constans said that the Government had called to order. Resuming his speech, M. Constans said the Government had to deal with a situation that was not merely with isolated cases. Similar scenes to those at Angoulême had been enacted on the same day at Lyons and Corbeil, and by the same political party. M. Constans said in conclusion that the Government was not in a position to make any concessions, and that the Government in the future would deal severely with those who were responsible for them.

At a recent meeting of the Berlin Meteorological Society Professor Bornstein stated that many experiments had been made to determine the influence of the moon's attraction on the earth's atmosphere. Semi-diurnal tides—corresponding to the oceanic tides—have been detected at four seasons, but observations at inland places have given different results. The difficulty of settling the problem is due to the fact that the mercury in the barometer is affected by the alterations in gravity produced by the moon.

An electric theodolite, giving hidden gunners the exact direction of an enemy's vessels, whether at sea or on land, has been set up at Macchia, Italy, where a battery protects the island of Capra. From behind a hill, on which is placed the electric apparatus, the gunners are enabled to give the utmost precision, while an effective return fire is prevented by the inability of the foe to fix the location of the invisible guns.

Sir James Ferguson says that there is little doubt that a conference of the Powers will be held this year for the purpose of devising measures for the repression of the slave trade in Africa. Communications are now passing between Belgium and England with reference to preliminaries that must be arranged before the Conference meets. The same communications have also taken place with the representatives of the other Governments concerned.

John Thomas, alias John Welsh, a convict, attempted to kill Keeper James Hanlon at Auburn Prison yesterday. Thomas had been locked in a cell for bad conduct, and when Hanlon unlocked the cell the convict attacked him with an iron leg of his bedstead, which he had broken off. A fellow officer went to Hanlon's assistance and saved his life. Kinney was found upon a street in Indianapolis. His neck was broken and his skull crushed. When last seen he was intoxicated, in the company of a married woman, whose husband was believed to threaten Kinney. The police have not been able to find either the woman or her husband.

A large scaffold that had been carelessly erected at the new Power House which President Yerkes of the West Side Cable Street Railroad is building, at the corner of Rock and Madison streets, Chicago, fell with a crash, yesterday, and buried nine workmen in the ruins. No one was killed outright, but some will probably die.

The Cologne Gazette regards the reinstatement of Mallet as a political move. Mallet was German emissary the question of ruler of Samoa as secondary to that of the security of the lives and property of foreign residents depending upon independent foreign officials.

M. Drouelle and the other Boulangerists were arrested at Angoulême on Sunday for resisting the police have been released from custody, pending further proceedings. They were warned that they would be re-arrested if they attempted any further disturbances.

ARMY AND NAVY NEWS.

In a general order issued from the War Department yesterday, Major General Schofield has provided a special scheme of instruction to be carried out at all military posts, with a view to the practical education of officers and men, and in anticipation of the more complete equipment of the posts with apparatus for the conduct of target practice. The course of instruction is technical, embracing the use of meteorological instruments, telegraphy, electrical sciences and mathematics, and is also eminently practical in requiring study in the judgment of distances overland and water by sound, and by stop watches the art of tracking vessels and estimating the movement of ships and calculation of the effect of the wind on artillery fire, etc. In addition to these subjects, non-commissioned officers and other enlisted men of sufficient intelligence will receive careful instruction in the use of logarithmic solution, plane triangles and of simple ballistic formulae.

The War Department has determined to test officially the merits of the Merriam knapsack, a device invented by an army officer, which relieves the shoulders from the weight of baggage and thrusts it upon the hips. The knapsack has already been tried by individual soldiers, who assert that by its use they are able to carry greatly increased weights without additional effort, while the arms and shoulders are free for other work.

At the New-York Navy Yard work has already begun on what was designed to be the monitor Puritan, but which is soon to be a powerful barbette fighting ship, reconstructed upon plans originated by a Naval Construction Board and a secret order of the Navy. ## CITY AND SUBURBAN NEWS

AND BITS OF CHAT AND GOSSIP OVER-HEARD HERE TO-DAY.

Physicians Report Many Cases of Rheumatism in this Vicinity—Concerning Borrowed Books—Dangerous "Conveniences"—Rainy Weather Paragraphs—Heavy Shipments of Coal Being Made.

There are an unusually large number of persons affected with rheumatism at present in this City. The disease is aggravated by the prevailing damp weather, though another cause is due to the dense foliage that surrounds many dwellings. In instances there have not been trimmed for several years and houses are damp and gloomy in consequence. Physicians are taking a lively interest in the disease, and as a result, many owners of property are trimming off superfluous branches and cutting down trees that are neither a thing of beauty nor a joy from any point of view.

Recent rains have had a telling effect on portions of Union-avenue. The car tracks of the horse railroad at certain points were filled with large pools of water yesterday. That portion of the avenue near St. James-street is in a disgraceful condition. On one side there are no less than six ruts worn in the road bed by vehicles, and filled with water and mud. The condition of other streets up-town, over which bluestone is drawn, is equally as bad. "Drive slowly" is an admonition heeded by careful horsemen.

A certain woman here prides herself on being able to drive a sharp bargain, but on a recent occasion she outwitted herself. "How much are those strawberries a box?" she inquired of a wary huckster. "Twelve cents," was the reply. "I'll give you a quarter for a couple of boxes, and it's all they're worth," she said. The berries were purchased and both the woman and huckster went on their way rejoicing.

It is again pointed out that a number of lawyers are annoyed by their brethren of the Bar borrowing law books, so much so that they have small memorandum books, in which they note down the name of the latest borrower and the title of the book. The only trouble with this method is, that when a man returns a book, he usually lays it on the table, and walks off unconcerned, and no note is made of the fact of its return.

Last evening the strawberry and ice cream festivals in the Wurts-street Baptist, Spring-street German Lutheran and Wurts-street M. E. churches were largely patronized. The rooms were filled with the perfume of blooming flowers and happy-faced people. There was a large attendance at the sociable of the congregation of the First Reformed Church at the home of Miss E. Conklin, on Albany-avenue.

After saw-dust had been thrown upon Wall-street, in front of the Court House, yesterday, teamsters seemed to be startled when their vehicles ran on it, owing to the cessation of the noise of the wheels on the stone blocks. In instances the men looked around at their wagons to see if an accident had happened.

Certain saloon-keepers, who believe the time is coming when they will be compelled to keep their places closed on Sundays, say they will "make efforts to have other branches of business suspended and see that the Sunday law is indiscriminately enforced."

On Friday evening members of the Poughkeepsie Young Men's Christian Association will pay a fraternal visit to the Rondout Young Men's Christian Association. The meeting of the Boys' Branch last evening was largely attended. The exercises were interesting.

One Joseph Solomon had a narrow escape from being drowned while sailing in a row-boat on the Rondout Creek last night. He fell into the water while attempting to climb aboard an used-up woman and was rescued by people standing near.

The recent warm, muggy weather and continuous rains had a disastrous effect on berries picked for market. Last night about 100 quarts of strawberries, picked in Esopus yesterday and sold to a Rondout dealer, spoiled.

For some time past manufacturers of soda water and other temperance drinks in this City have been making an effort to raise the price of their "products" on account of the increase in the price of sugar, but the scheme failed.

A landlady who is the owner of a large tenement house down town will not rent rooms to any person that has his or her household furniture insured. Afraid of "friction," probably.

It was a long-headed merchant who remarked this afternoon: "Penywise and pound foolish business men stop advertising at the wrong time." The time to advertise is all the year round.

"Music" similar to that produced by "the band" in the Moorish Caravan of Barnum & Bailey's show has been ground out on streets here by an aged woman with the aid of an organette for two days.

A picture of the steam passenger yachts that were sunk in the Rondout Creek on the edge of the south dyke recently, can be seen in the Cornell Steamboat Company's towing office here.

Sawdust spittoons are dangerous "conveniences" to have in a building, as has been demonstrated here several times. People will throw lighted stumps of cigars into them.

The funeral of Emma Schreiber will be held from the residence of her parents at 10:45 to-morrow forenoon and from St. Mary's Church at 11 o'clock.

During the past three weeks there has been a brisk demand for coal at the Rondout Department of the Delaware & Hudson Canal Company.

At the next meeting of Ulster Lodge, No. 76, Knights of Pythias, the rank of Page and the Amplified Rank of Knight will be conferred.

In this day of little things the small cucumber comes out ahead, and the demand for the vegetable seems to exceed the supply here.

THE STEAM ROLLER RUNNING AGAIN.

The Damage Sustained Yesterday was Repaired by Mechanists Last Night.

The very unsatisfactory performance yesterday of the new steam roller, recently purchased by Aldermen of this City, is the principal topic of conversation here. This forenoon Alderman Weiss, a member of the Roller Committee said: "I think a mistake has been made by the City in buying that roller. It is only fitted to do work on certain streets. Other thoroughfares will have to be repaired and improved the same as heretofore. It would have been more sensible to have purchased a roller like the one in use at Sing Sing, which is drawn by horses, and which does all the work required. There is no danger of such a roller breaking down and no fuel or men are needed to run it."

Another Alderman said: "I do not believe the roller is evenly balanced; what I mean is that the forward wheel is not as heavy as the rear ones and the work required. It will not roll smooth, a ridge being left in the road which it may go over. I don't believe, either, that it can be worked to any degree of success on dirt roads."

Alderman Weber said: "It is just as I expected. The way the roller is being run promises to prove an expensive luxury."

The machine was repaired last night. At 8 o'clock this morning Edward Gaskell took the post of engineer and Alexander Meyer that of fireman. Steam was gotten up and the roller was started and run up the Bowery to Fair-street. It has been at work to-day on the lower portion of the latter thoroughfare.

FIRE ON MURRAY-STREET TO-DAY.

Part of a Frame Building Guttered by Flames—The Estimated Loss.

About 12:30 o'clock to-day the roof of a three-story frame dwelling house, on Murray-street, owned by Matthew Larkin, was discovered to be on fire. An alarm was given. While members of Cornell, Weber, and Rapid Hose and Rescue Hook and Ladder companies were on their way to the scene, neighbors helped carry furniture out of the house. On the top floor lived a widow, Mrs. Mack. Nearly all of her household effects were destroyed by fire and water. She was not injured. On the second floor lived Charles Gay, who, with his family, are "up the canal." Most of their furniture was saved. Patrick Tierney, on the first floor, did not lose much. Cornell and Weber Hose companies soon had the flames under control. The roof and a portion of the third story were burned. The house was insured for $1,000. The loss is estimated at about $400. The origin of the fire is unknown.

The Holland Society.

At the annual meeting of the Holland Society at the Hotel Brunswick, New York City, on Tuesday evening, ex-Judge Hooper C. Van Vorst was re-elected President, George W. VanSiclen Secretary and Abraham VanSantvoort Treasurer, and as Trustees to serve till 1893, Messrs. W. W. Van Voorhis, John L. Riker, Robert B. Roosevelt, George G. DeWitt, Jr., and Henry R. Beekman. A committee consisting of General E. E. Vail, Edgar M. VanWinkle and Giles Y. Van Der Bogert were appointed to represent the Society February 2, 1890, at the Bi-centennial of the Massacre of Schenectady, N. Y. It was determined to begin the publication of the records of the old Dutch churches of America, all of which have been copied by the Society. A resolution was adopted looking to friendly intercourse with the descendants of the Dutch who settled South Africa in 1652, not long after their relatives founded New York. It was also determined to offer a Holland Society cup for the yacht races at Sneek on the Zuider Zee, Holland, one of the places where the Holland Society were so handsomely entertained on their pilgrimage last summer.

Found Drowned in the Hudson.

On Monday forenoon Hiram Freer, of Edenville, while at work on Adam Neidlinger's place at Esopus, saw something in the Hudson River that resembled a human form. He secured a boat and found that the object was the body of a man. He towed it ashore and tied it to a tree. When the steam passenger yacht Charles T. Coutant reached Rondout Captain Atkins telephoned the facts to Coroner Carr. Yesterday Mr. Carr went to Coxsack. He learned that the name of the drowned man was William VanAllen. It was claimed that he fell off a vessel opposite Pell's Landing on Thursday afternoon. The statement of the Captain will be laid before the jury. The story that the deceased was murdered is considered ridiculous.

What Certain Pot Fishermen Do.

A correspondent of THE FREEMAN at Ellenville writes: "I saw in THE FREEMAN recently an article about 'old-time fishing with nets.' It is not an 'old-time' custom only. It is done every summer yet in the town of Wawarsing by parties in Ellenville, Port Ben and Kermonkson. There are others also who say they go 'spearing' fish and eels at night with torchlights. They are generally provided with scap nets and the 'spearing' is only a blind. They catch trout, bass and other game fish."

As Related by the Pupils.

One of the pupils of Ulster Academy here on Monday was apprehensive that she would be unable to pass the Regents' examination in Censor. While she slept that night she dreamt, and the questions to be asked, she says, were outlined so vividly that she distinctly remembered them. Next day, having this advantage, she studied hard and when the questions were handed her on Wednesday she passed a creditable examination.

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT.

When "Loving Friend" J. Dewitt Wrote Concerning the Longest Week He Had "Seen in Ten Years' Time"—A Lonesome Man Who Took a Woman's Advice, Etc.—Prisoners Arraigned in Oyerand Terminer.

In Circuit Court here the case of Elizabeth B. Bruyn vs. Jacob Russell, Executor, was continued yesterday and to-day.

A feature in the case was the introduction of a letter, which it was stated had been written by Jacob DeWitt, who gave the note, to the plaintiff. It reads as follows:

WAWARSING, June 21, 1884.

Dear Libbie, I came past your house yesterday thinking to get sight of you. It was too late to stop. I wanted to tell you about our trip to the mountain to the mountain house. I couldn't leave way. They all clear out on Sunday and Elks hasn't got back yet. I think we had better go some week. I will have to go to Ellenville to-morrow, so you can look for me any day after that. I saw you go past. I don't know if you was at Myra's or at the depot. Libbie has been the longest week I have seen in ten years.

I will drop in the office on my way up so you can get it at my place.

Dear Libbie, I am taking your advice when I am lonesome to write to you. Can't think what pleasure the little letters have been to me that you sent me with George. Don't ever think of going away to Russell's while I live. The very thoughts of your going away would be too much for me. I am writing more than I expected to do when I commenced.

From your loving friend, Jacob DeWitt.

Witnesses were examined to show that Jacob DeWitt had been in the habit of calling on Mrs. Bruyn. John Blanshan, the plaintiff's brother, who worked on her farm, testified that he was acquainted with Jacob DeWitt. DeWitt died January 17, 1885, at the age of 70 years. "He visited Mrs. Bruyn's house repeatedly in the fall and summer of 1884. He met her in the parlor and sitting room. On October 29, 1884, [the date of the note], I saw DeWitt talk to her. I was working on the road and DeWitt came up the road and went to the house with a horse and wagon. When he went away Mrs. Bruyn came out to the door with him. They walked to the gate together." The witness said he remembered the date because he had chalked down the time he worked on the road on a board in the horse stable. Solomon Vandemark, who worked at Mrs. Bruyn's, also saw DeWitt on the day that Blanshan saw him. Byron Kortright, Lewis B. Stevens and Mahlon Black testified that they saw DeWitt at Kermonkson on that day and that he got very much excited talking politics.

Among the witnesses who testified were George D. Lydecker, C. W. Devo, James W. Russell, Goldsborough Garrison and Cornelius Kortright.

Argument upon the question whether or not photographic exhibits, offered by defendant, should be allowed in evidence, were made. Judge Edwards decided not to admit them.

This afternoon the case was opened on the part of the defendant. Witnesses were called to testify that the signature on the note was not genuine. The first of these witnesses was John T. DeWitt, brother of Jacob DeWitt.

COURT NOTES.

Some amusement was created yesterday when the question came up whether the Court should limit the number of witnesses called as experts to 13 on each side in the note case. One lawyer said it was an unfortunate number. Another lawyer remarked that as he belonged to a club of 13, he would not object to 13. Judge Edwards said that he would fix the number at 13.

Judge Edwards has adjourned the short case calendar until the second Friday.

COURT OF OYER AND TERMINER.

F. A. Wedelick was appointed to defend him. Dennis Coughlin, indicted for robbing a peddler's wagon at Rosendale, May 17, 1889, pleaded not guilty. Peter Robinson, indicted for stealing money of John Riley, town of Rosendale, September 4, 1888, pleaded not guilty. William D. Brinard appeared as counsel for Coughlin, Robinson and Maxon. He said he desired to make motions in the case and to ask indictments. Judge Edwards said he would hear such motions next Tuesday.

THE REFORMED CHURCH SYNOD.

Proceedings of That Body Now in Annual Session in Catskill Village.

In the General Synod of the Reformed Church, now in session in the village of Catskill, the following business has been transacted: A supplementary report was received from the Committee on Foreign Missions, appropriating $101,000 for Foreign Mission work during the year. The Rev. N. J. Conklin, District Secretary of the American Tract Society, made an address on the work of the Society. The statistics from the churches in the Dutch Church of Philadelphia, 120; missionary pastors, 95; families, 5,127; communicants, 7,420; members received, 1,048; membership of Sunday Schools, 10,269; total receipts of Board, $59,000; total receipts of Women's Executive Committee, $10,417. The Committee on Domestic Missions reported that the Synod asked the churches for $75,000 last year for the use of the Board. Of this only $50,000 was received. The debt of the building fund was stated to be a sum equal to one-half of the amount received by it during the year. The Committee recommended that $75,000 be raised for the Board's work during the year and that a plan be devised to raise the efficiency of the Church Building Fund. An address bearing on the subject of the churches of the Dutch Church of Philadelphia was made by the Rev. C. H. Pool, Secretary of the Board. Considerable discussion followed in relation to the matter of the trust funds of the Third Church of Philadelphia. The following resolutions in relation thereto were adopted:

Resolved, That the action of the General Synod of 1886, recognizing Gordon and his associates as the Consistory of the Third Church of Philadelphia, is hereby rescinded, on the ground that that time was not a member of the Reformed Church, and the action of Synod concerning him was unconstitutional, and that the whole Consistory, petitioners with him.

It Costs Less.

On the question of real economy Hood's Sarsaparilla is so far ahead of other preparations as to place them entirely out of the race as competitors. Here are facts in regard to this popular medicine, easily susceptible of conclusive proof: 1. Hood's Sarsaparilla costs the Manufacturer more than any other competing preparation, because it is more highly concentrated and contains more medicinal value. 2. It costs the Jobber more, as a consequence of the fact just stated. 3. It costs the Retail Druggist more, for the same reason, as can easily be learned by a comparison of the desire of some retailers to sell their own preparations, which costs them less, and for which they get the same price, thus making more money. But 4. It costs the Consumer less than any other medicine, because of its greater concentrated strength and the quantity in each bottle and because it is the only preparation of which can truly be said, "100 Doses One Dollar."

A Point for You.

When you buy a medicine, you want the best. Ask for Hood's Sarsaparilla, and insist upon having it. Do not let any argument or persuasion influence you to buy what you do not want. Be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla.

CITY AND SUBURBAN NEWS

AND BITS OF CHAT AND GOSSIP OVER-HEARD HERE TO-DAY.

Physicians Report Many Cases of Rheumatism in this vicinity.—Concerning Rheumatism—Dangerous "Conveniences"—Rainy Weather Paragraphs—Heavy Shipments of Coal Being Made.

There are an unusually large number of persons affected with rheumatism at present in this City. The disease is aggravated by the prevailing damp weather, though another cause is due to the dense foliage that surrounds many dwellings. In instances trees have not been trimmed for several years and houses are damp and gloomy in consequence. Physicians are taking a lively interest in the tree business, and as a result, many owners of property are trimming off superfluous branches and cutting down trees that are neither a thing of beauty nor a joy from any point of view.

Recent rains have had a telling effect on portions of Union-avenue. The car tracks of the horse railroad at certain points were filled with large pools of water yesterday. That portion of the avenue near St. James-street is in a disgraceful condition. On one side there are not less than six ruts in the road, bed by vehicles, and filled with water and mud. The condition of other streets up-town, over which bluestone is drawn, is equally as bad. "Drive slowly" is an admonition heeded by careful horsemen.

A certain woman here prides herself on being able to drive a sharp bargain, but on a recent occasion she out-witted herself. "How much are those strawberries?" she inquired of a wary huckster. "Twelve cents," was the reply. "I'll give you a quarter for a couple of boxes, and it's all they're worth," said she. The berries were purchased and both the woman and huckster went on their way rejoicing.

It is again pointed out that a number of lawyers are annoyed by their brethren of the Bar borrowing law books, so much so that they have small memorandum books, in which they note down the name of the borrower and the title of the book. The only trouble with this method is, that when a man returns a book, he usually lays it on the table, and walks off unconcerned, and no note is made of the fact of its return.

Last evening the strawberry and ice cream festival in the Wurts-street Baptist, Spring-Street German Lutheran and Wurts-Street M. E. churches, were largely patronized. The rooms were filled with the perfume of blooming flowers and happy-faced people. There was a large attendance at the sociable of the congregation of the First Reformed Church at the home of Miss E. Conklin, on Albany-avenue.

After saw-dust had been thrown upon Wall-street, in front of the Court House, yesterday, teamsters seemed to be startled when their vehicles ran on it, owing to the cessation of the noise of the wheels on the stone blocks. In instances the men looked around at their wagons to see if an accident had happened.

Certain saloon-keepers, who believe the time is coming when they will be compelled to keep their places closed on Sundays, say they will "make efforts to have other branches of business suspended and see that the Sunday law is indiscriminately enforced."

On Friday evening members of the Poughkeepsie Young Men's Christian Association will pay a fraternal visit to the Rondout Young Men's Christian Association. The meeting of the Boys' Branch last evening was largely attended. The exercises were interesting.

One Joseph Solomon had a narrow escape from being drowned while sailing in a row-boat on the Rondout Creek last night. He fell into the water while attempting to climb upon a dock. He was rescued by people standing near.

The recent warm, muggy weather and cloudy rains have had a disastrous effect on berries picked for market. Last night about 100 crates of strawberries, picked in Esopus yesterday and sold to a Rondout dealer, spoiled.

For some time past manufacturers of soda water and other temperance drinks in this City have been making an effort to raise the price of their "products" on account of the increase in the price of sugar, but the scheme failed.

A landlord who is the owner of a large tenement house down town will not rent to any person that has his or her household furniture insured. Afraid of "friction," probably.

It was a long-headed merchant who remarked this afternoon: "Pennywise and pound foolish business men stop advertising at the wrong time." The time to advertise is all the year round.

"Music" similar to that produced by "the band" in the Moorish Caravan of Barnum & Bailey's show has been ground out on streets here by an aged woman with the aid of an organette for two days.

A picture of the steam passenger yachts that were sunk in the Rondout Creek on the edge of the south side, recently was seen in the Cornell Steamboat Company's towing office here.

Sawdust spittoons are dangerous "conveniences" to have in a building, as has been demonstrated here several times. People will throw lighted stumps of cigars into them.

The funeral of Emma Schreiber will be held from the residence of her parents at 10-15 to-morrow forenoon and from St. Mary's Church at 11 o'clock.

During the past three weeks there has been a brisk demand for coal at the Rondout Department of the Delaware & Hudson Canal Company.

At the next meeting of Ulster Lodge, No. 76, Knights of Pythias, the rank of Page and the Amplified Rank of Knight will be conferred.

In this day of little things the small cucumber comes out ahead, and the demand for the vegetable seems to exceed the supply here.

This forenoon a man named James Powers was sentenced to pay $5 or spend 10 days in jail by Recorder Hussy for intoxication.

Nathaniel Booth said this forenoon that he has kept a record of passing events and of the weather here for the past 30 years.

Mrs. Benedict Dreyfus, who is over 80 years old, makes her own garments, sewing them without the use of eye-glasses.

To-morrow will be the annual anniversary of the adoption of the Stars and Stripes as the flag of this Nation.

With the advent of warmer weather, the amount of work performed by the various secret societies diminishes.

Rondout is far enough up the Hudson River to escape being pestered by New York City Sunday excursions.

Rondout carmen who congregate on The Strand spend their leisure moments in "telling stories."

Real estate dealers here say that many building lots have been sold during the past three months.

The supply of "good hired girls" in this City does not appear to be equal to the demand.

The latest dude foolishness is wearing a porous plaster to impart a rigid military air.

Close shaving has gone out of fashion, as it roughens many faces.

Expressmen are doing a "smashing" business now-a-days.

The weather this morning was all that could be desired.

Weiner Bros Company will go on an excursion soon.

John Weber and wife, of Brooklyn, are visiting here.

Fair weather promised hereabouts on Friday.

THE STEAM ROLLER RUNNING AGAIN.

The Damage Sustained Yesterday was Repaired by the City.

The very unsatisfactory performance yesterday of the new steam road roller, recently purchased by Aldermen of this City, is the principal topic of conversation here. This forenoon Alderman Weiss, a member of the Roller Committee said: "I think a mistake has been made by the City in buying that roller. It is only fitted to do work on certain streets. Other thoroughfares will have to be repaired and improved the same as heretofore. It would have been more sensible to have purchased a roller like the one in use at Sing Sing, which is drawn by horses, and which does all the work required. There is no danger of such a roller breaking down and no fuel or men are needed to run it."

Another Alderman said: "I do not believe that the roller is as bad as they say. I mean that the forward wheel is not as heavy as the rear ones and as a consequence it will not run smooth, a ridge being left in the road which it may go over. I don't believe, either, that it can be worked to any degree of success on dirt roads."

Alderman Weber said: "It is just as I expected. The way the roller is being run promises to prove an expensive luxury."

The machine was repaired last night. At 8 o'clock this morning Edward Gaskill took the post of engineer and Alexander Meyer that of fireman. Steam was gotten up and the roller was started and run up the Bowery to Fair street. It has been at work to day on the lower portion of the latter thoroughfare.

FIRE ON MURRAY-STREET TO-DAY.

Part of a Frame Building Gotten by Flames—The Estimated Loss.

At about 12-30 o'clock to-day the roof of a three-story frame dwelling house, on Murray-street, owned by Matthew Larkin, was discovered to be on fire. An alarm was given. While members of Cornell, Weber, and Rapid Hose and Rescue Hook and Ladder companies were on their way to the scene, neighbors helped carry furniture out of the house. On the top floor lived a widow, Mrs. Mack. Nearly all of her household effects were destroyed by fire and water. She was not injured. On the second floor lived Charles Gay, who, with his family, are "up the canal." Most of their furniture was saved. Patrick Tierney, on the first floor, did not lose much. Cornell and Weber Hose companies had the flames under control. The roof and a portion of the third story were burned. The house was insured for $1,000. The loss is estimated at about $400. The origin of the fire is unknown.

The Holland Society.

At the annual meeting of the Holland Society at the Hotel Brunswick, New-York City, on Tuesday evening, ex-Judge Hooper C. Van Vorst was re-elected President, George W. VanSiclen Secretary and Abraham VanSantvoord Treasurer, and as Trustees to serve till 1893, Messrs. W. W. Van Voorhis, John L. Riker, Robert B. Roosevelt, George G. DeWitt, Jr., and Henry R. Beckman. A committee consisting of General Egbert L. Viele, Edgar M. VanWinkle and Giles Y. Van Der Kolk were appointed to reorganize the Society February 2, 1890, at the Bicentennial of the Massacre of Schenectady, N. Y. It was determined to begin the publication of the records of the old Dutch churches of America, all of which have been copied by the Society. A resolution was adopted looking to friendly intercourse with the descendants of the Dutch who settled South Africa in 1652, not long after their relatives founded New-York. It was also determined to offer a Holland Society cup for the yacht races at Sneek on the Zuyder Zee, Holland, and the places where the Holland Society were so handsomely entertained on their pilgrimage last summer.

Found Drowned in the Hudson.

On Monday forenoon Hiram Freer, of Edinville, while at work on Adam Neidlinger's place at Esopus, saw something in the Hudson River that resembled a human form. He secured a boat and found that the object was the body of a man. He towed it ashore and tied it to a tree. When the steam passenger yacht Charles T. Coutant reached Rondout Captain Atkins telephoned the facts to Coroner Carr. Yesterday Mr. Carr went to Cosackville. He learned that the name of the drowned man was William VanAllen. It was claimed that he fell at a vessel opposite Pell's Landing on Thursday afternoon. The statement of the Captain will be laid before the jury. The story that the deceased was murdered is considered ridiculous.

What Certain Pot Fishermen Do.

A correspondent of THE FREEMAN at Ellenville writes: "I saw in THE FREEMAN recently an article about 'old-time fishing with nets.' It is not an 'old-time' custom only. It is done every summer yet in the town of Wawarsing by parties in Ellenville, Port Ben and Kerhonkson. There are others also who say they go 'spearing' fish and eels at night with torchlights. They are generally provided with cap nets and the 'spearing' is only a blind. They catch trout, bass and other game fish."

As Related by the Popul.

One of the pupils of Ulster Academy here on Monday was apprehensive that she would be unable to pass the Regents' examination in Caesar. While she slept that night she dreamt, and the questions to be asked, she says, were outlined so vividly that she distinctly remembered them. Next day, having this advantage, she studied hard and when the questions were handed her on Wednesday she passed a creditable examination.

Money Received for Licenses Here.

The whole number of licenses thus far granted by the Excise Board is 94. The total amount of money received for such licenses is $5,285. The licenses and amounts are classified as follows: Ale and beer, 64, $3, 200; hotel, 21, $1,575; drug, 5, $250; store, 4, $200. The total amount collected for licenses last year was $9,415.

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT.

When "Loving Friend" J. DeWitt wrote Concerning the Longest Week He Had "Seen in Ten Years' Time"—A Lonesome Man Who Took a Woman's Advice, Etc.—Prisoners Arraigned in Oyer and Terminer.

In Circuit Court here the case of Elizabeth B. Bruyn vs. Jacob Russell, Executor, was continued yesterday and to-day. A feature in the case was the introduction of a letter, which was written by Jacob DeWitt, who gave the note, to the plaintiff. It reads as follows:

Dear Libbie: I came past your house yesterday thinking to get sight of you. It was too late to stop. I wanted to tell you about our trip on the mountain to the mountain house. I couldn't leave no way. They all clear out on Sunday and Eliza hasn't got back yet. I think I had better go some week day. I will have to go to Ellenville to-morrow, so you can look for me any day after that. I saw you go past. I don't know if you was at Myra's or at Ellenville. Libbie, this has been the longest week I have seen in ten years.

I will drop in the office on my way up so you can get it at either place.

Dear Libbie: I am taking your advice when I am lonesome to write to you. Can't think what pleasure the little letters has been to me that you sent me with George. Don't never think of going away to Russell's place. The very thought of your going away would be too much for me. I am writing more than I expected to do when I commenced. I was over as early as I can.

From your loving friend, Jacob DeWitt.

Witnesses were examined to show that Jacob DeWitt had been in the habit of calling on Mrs. Bruyn. John Blanshan, the plaintiff's brother, who worked on her farm, testified that he was acquainted with Jacob DeWitt. DeWitt died January 17, 1885, at the age of 70 years. He visited Mrs. Bruyn's house repeatedly in the fall and spring of 1884. He met her in the parlor and sitting room. On October 29, 1884, (The date of the note.) I saw DeWitt and talked with him. I was working on the road and DeWitt came up the road and went to the house with a horse and wagon. Then he went away Mrs. Bruyn came out to the door with him. They walked to the gate together. The witness said he remembered the date because he chalked down the time he worked on the road on a board in the horse stable. Solomon Vandemark, who worked at Mrs. Bruyn's, also saw DeWitt call day that Blanshan saw him. Byron Kortright, Lewis B. Stevens and Mahlon Black testified that they saw DeWitt at Kerhonkson on that day and that he got very much excited talking politics.

Among the witnesses who testified were George D. Lydecker, C. W. Devo, James W. Russell, Goldborough Garrison and Cornelius Kortright.

Argument upon the question whether or not photographic exhibits, offered by defendant, should be allowed in evidence, were made. Judge Edwards decided not to admit them.

This afternoon the case was opened on the part of the defendant. Witnesses were called to testify that the signature to the note was not genuine. The first of these witnesses was John T. DeWitt, brother of Jacob DeWitt.

COURT NOTES.

Some minutes was created yesterday when the question came up whether the Court should limit the number of witnesses called as experts to 13 on each side in the note case.

One lawyer said it was an unfortunate number. Another said it was like the case in use. He belonged to a club of 13 members whose object was to conquer this superstition he should favor 13. Judge Edwards said that he would fix the number at 13.

COURT OF OYER AND TERMINER.

In the Court of Oyer and Terminer this forenoon the following named prisoners were arraigned: John Kern, indicted for breaking into the market of VanVleet & Hotelling at Port Ewen, April 18, 1888, pleaded not guilty. F. W. Cook was appointed to defend him. Dennis Coughlin, indicted for robbing a pedler's wagon at Rosendale, May 17, 1889, pleaded not guilty. Peter Robinson, indicted for stealing money of John Riley, town of Rosendale, September 4, 1888, pleaded not guilty. Cook was appointed to defend him. Dennis Coughlin, indicted for committing rape on Augusta Branden, aged 13 years, this City, December 25, 1888, pleaded not guilty. William D. Brinier appeared as counsel for Coughlin, Robinson and Maxon. He said he desired to make motions in this case to quash the indictments. Judge Edwards said he would hear such motions next Tuesday.

THE REFORMED CHURCH SYNOD.

Proceedings of That Body Now in Annual Session in Catskill Village.

In the General Synod of the Reformed Church, now in session in the village of Catskill, the following business has been transacted: A supplementary report was received from the Committee on Foreign Missions, appropriating $101,000 for Foreign Mission work during the year. The Rev. J. Conklin, District Secretary of the American Tract Society, made an address on the work of the Society. The statistics from the churches under the control of the Board of Domestic Missions were given as follows: Churches, 130; missionaries, 45; families, 5,127; communicants, 7,420; members received, 1,048; membership of Sunday Schools, 10,269; total receipts of Board, $59,060; total receipts of Women's Executive Committee, $10,417. The Committee on Domestic Missions reported that the Synod asked the churches for $75,000 last year for the use of the Board. Of this only $50,000 was received. The debt of the building fund was stated to be a sum equal to one-half of the amount received by it during the year. The Committee recommended that $75,000 be raised for the Board work during the year and that a plan be devised to raise the efficiency of the Church Building Fund. An address bearing on the contributions of the churches to Domestic Missions was made by the Rev. C. H. Pool, Secretary of the Board. A considerable discussion followed in relation to the matter of the trust funds of the Third Church of Philadelphia. The following resolutions in relation thereto were adopted:

Resolved, That the action of the General Synod in suspending the churches from the Synod and the Consistory of the Third Church of Philadelphia, is hereby rescinded, on the ground that Gordon at that time was a member of the Third Church of Philadelphia, and the action of Synod concerning him was unconstitutional, and violates the whole Consistory petitions with him.

Resolved, That in view of a state of things now long continued, which renders the remaining members of the Third Reformed Church powerless for good, the Consistory of Philadelphia be and is hereby instructed to disband said church forthwith, and to take any or such other proper or necessary action concerning its funds.

It Costs Less.

On the question of real economy Hood's Sarsaparilla is so far ahead of other preparations as to place them entirely out of the race as competitors. Here are facts in regard to this popular medicine, easily susceptible of conclusive proof:

1. Hood's Sarsaparilla costs the Manufacturer more than any other competing preparation, because it is more highly concentrated and contains more real medicinal value.

2. It costs the Jobber more, as a consequence of the fact just stated.

3. It costs the Retail Druggist more, for the same reason—as can easily be learned by inquiry. Hence the dealer who sells Hood's Sarsaparilla, and who gets the same price, sells it for less, and for which they get the same price, this making more money. But

4. It costs the Consumer less than any other medicine, because of its greater concentrated strength and the quantity in each bottle, and because it is the only preparation of which can truly be said, "100 Doses One Dollar."

That the people appreciate this is shown by the fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla has the Largest Sale of any sarsaparilla or blood purifier. It possesses peculiar merit and effects wonderful cures.

A Point for You.

When you buy a medicine, you want the best. Ask for Hood's Sarsaparilla, and insist upon having it. Do not let any argument or persuasion induce you to buy what you do not want. Be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"Last spring I was completely fagged out. My strength left me and I felt sick and miserable all the time, so that I could hardly attend to my business. I procured one bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it cured me." R. C. Bussell, Editor Enterprise, Belleville, Mich.

AND BITS OF CHAT AND GOSSIP OVER-HEARD HERE TO-DAY.

There are an unusually large number of persons affected with rheumatism at present in this City. The disease is aggravated by the prevailing damp weather, though another cause is due to the dense foliage that surrounds many dwellings. In instances trees have not been trimmed for several years and houses are damp and gloomy in consequence. Physicians are taking a lively interest in the tree business, and, as a result, many owners of property are trimming off superfluous branches and cutting down trees that are neither a thing of beauty nor a joy from any point of view.

Recent rains have had a telling effect on portions of Union-avenue. The car tracks of the horse railroad at certain points were filled with large pools of water yesterday. That portion of the avenue near St. James-street is in a disgraceful condition. On one side there are no less than six ruts worn in the road-bed by the wheels of the cars, and on the other the condition of other streets up-town, over which bluestone is drawn, is equally as bad. "Drive slowly" is an admonition heeded by careful horsemen.

A certain woman here prides herself on being able to drive a sharp bargain, but on a recent occasion she was outwitted herself. "How much are those strawberries a box?" she inquired of a wary huckster. "Twelve cents," was the reply. "I'll give you a quarter for a couple of boxes, and it's all they're worth," said she. The berries were purchased and both the woman and huckster went on their way rejoicing.

It is again pointed out that a number of lawyers are annoyed by their brethren of the Bar borrowing law books, so much so that they have small memorandum books, in which they note down the name of the latest borrower and the title of the book. The only trouble with this method is, that when a man returns a book, he usually lays it out on the table, and walks off unconcerned, and no note is made of the fact of its return.

Last evening the strawberry and ice cream festivals in the Wurts-street Baptist, Spring-street German Lutheran and Wurts-street M. E. churches were largely patronized. The rooms were filled with the perfume of blooming flowers and happy-faced people. There was a large attendance at the sociable of the congregation of the First Reformed Church at the home of Miss E. Conklin, on Albany-avenue.

After saw-dust had been thrown upon Wall-street, in front of the Court House, yesterday, teamsters seemed to be started when their vehicles ran on it, owing to the cessation of the noise of the wheels on the stone blocks. In instances the men looked around at their wagons to see if an accident had happened.

Certain saloon-keepers, who believe the time is coming when they will be compelled to keep their places closed on Sundays, say they will "make efforts to have other branches of business suspended and see that the Sunday law is indiscriminately enforced."

On Friday evening members of the Poughkeepsie Young Men's Christian Association will pay a fraternal visit to the Rondout Young Men's Christian Association. The meeting of the Boys' Branch last evening was largely attended. The exercises were interesting.

One Joseph Solomon had a narrow escape from being drowned while sailing in a row-boat on the Rondout creek last night. He fell into the water while attempting to climb up the dock. He was rescued by people standing near.

The recent warm, muggy weather and copious rains have had a disastrous effect on the prices of strawberries. Last night about 100 quarts of strawberries, piled in boxes yesterday and sold to a Rondout dealer, spoiled.

For some time past manufacturers of soda water and other temperance drinks in this City have been making an effort to raise the price of their "products" on account of the increase in the price of sugar, but the scheme failed.

A landlord who is the owner of a large tenement house down town will not rent rooms to any person that has his or her household furniture insured. Afraid of "friction," probably.

It was a long-headed merchant who recommended this afternoon, "Don't buy and pound foolish business men stop advertising at the wrong time." The time to advertise is all the year round.

"Music" similar to that produced by "the band" in the Moorish Caravan of Barnum & Bailey's show has been ground out on streets by an agent with the aid of an orchestra for two days.

A picture of the steam passenger yachts that were sunk in the Rondout Creek on the edge of the south dyke recently, can be seen in the Cornell Steamboat Company's towing office here.

Sawdust spiltions are dangerous "conveniences" to have in a building, as have been demonstrated here several times. People will throw lighted stumps of cigars into them.

The funeral of Emma Schreiber will be held from the residence of her parents at 10:45 to-morrow forenoon and from St. Mary's Church at 11 o'clock.

During the past three weeks there has been a brisk demand for coal at the Rondout Department of the Delaware & Hudson Canal Company.

In this day of little things the small cucumber comes out ahead, and the demand for the vegetable seems to exceed the supply here.

This forenoon a man named James Powers was sentenced to pay $3 or spend 10 days in jail by Recorder Hussey for intoxication.

Nathaniel Booth said this forenoon that he has kept a record of passing events and of the weather here for the past 30 years.

With the advent of warmer weather, the amount of work performed by the various secret societies diminishes.

Rondout is far enough up the Hudson River to escape being pestered by New-York City Sunday excursions.

Rondout carmen who congregate on The Strand spend their leisure moments in "telling stories."

Real estate dealers here say that many building lots have been sold during the past three months.

The supply of "good hired girls" in this City does not appear to be equal to the demand.

The latest dose of foolishness is wearing a porous plaster to impart a rigid military air. Close shaving has gone out of fashion, as it roughens many faces.

Expressmen are doing a "smashing" business now-a-days.

The weather this morning was all that could be desired.

Weiner Hose Company will go on an excursion soon.

THE STEAM ROLLER RUNNING AGAIN.

The Damage Sustained Yesterday was Repaired by Machinists Last Night.

The very unsatisfactory performance yesterday of the new steam roller, recently purchased by Aldermen of this City, is the principal topic of conversation here. This forenoon Alderman Weiss, a member of the Roller Committee said: "I think a mistake has been made by the city in buying that roller. It is only fitted to work on certain roads. Other thoroughfares will have to be repaired and improved the same as heretofore. It would have been more sensible to have purchased a roller like the one in use at Sing Sing, which is drawn by horses, and which does all the work required. There is no danger of such a roller breaking down and no fuel or men are needed to run it."

Another Alderman said: "I do not believe the roller is evenly balanced, what I mean is that the forward wheel is not as heavy as the rear ones and as a consequence it will not roll smooth, a ridge being left in the road which it may go over. I don't believe, either, that it can be worked to any degree of success on dirt roads."

Alderman Weber said: "It is just as I expected. * * * The way the roller is being run promises to prove an expensive luxury."

The machine was repaired last night. At 8 o'clock this morning Edward Gaskell took post of engineer and Alexander Meyer that of fireman. Steam was gotten up and the roller was started and run up the Bowery to Fair-street. It has been at work today on the lower portion of the latter thoroughfare.

FIRE ON MURRAY-STREET TO-DAY.

Part of a Frame Building Gotten by Flames—The Estimated Loss.

At about 12:30 o'clock to-day the roof of a three-story frame dwelling house, on Murray-street, owned by Matthew Larkin, was discovered to be on fire. An alarm was given. While members of Cornell, Weber, and Rapid Hose and Rescue Hook and Ladder companies were on their way to the scene, neighbors helped carry furniture out of the house. On the top floor lived a widow, Mrs. Mack. Nearly all of her household effects were destroyed by fire and water. She was not injured. On the second floor lived Charles Gay, who, with his family, are "up the canal." Most of their furniture was saved. Patrick Tierney, on the first floor, did not lose much. Cornell and Weber Hose companies soon had the flames under control. The roof and a portion of the third story were burned. The house was insured for $1,000. The loss is estimated at about $400. The origin of the fire is unknown.

The Holland Society.

At the annual meeting of the Holland Society at the Hotel Brunswick, New-York City, on Tuesday evening, ex-Judge Hooper C. VanVorss was re-elected President, George W. VanSteen Secretary and Abraham VanSantvoort Treasurer, and as Trustees to serve till 1893, Messrs. W. W. VanVorss, John L. Riker, Robert B. Roosevelt, George G. DeWitt, Jr., and Henry R. Beckman. A committee consisting of General Egbert L. Vlieg, Edgar M. Van Winkle and Giles V. Van Der Bogert were appointed to represent the Society February 2, 1890, at the Bicentennial of the Massacre of Schenectady, N. Y. It was determined to send a delegation of the Dutch churches of America, all of which have been copied by the Society. A resolution was adopted looking to friendly intercourse with the descendants of the Dutch who settled South Africa, and to not long after their relatives founded New-York. It was also determined to offer a Holland Society cup for the yacht races at Sneek on the Zuider Zee, Holland, one of the places where the Holland Society were so handsomely entertained on their pilgrimage last summer.

Found Drowned in the Hudson.

On Monday forenoon Hiram Freer, of Edenville, while at work on Adam Neidlinger's place at Esopus, saw something in the Hudson River that resembled a human form. He secured a boat and found that the object was the body of a man. He towed it ashore and tied it to a tree. When the steam passenger yacht Charles T. Coutant reached Rondout Captain Atkins telephoned the facts to Coroner Carr. Yesterday Mr. Carr went to Coxsack. He learned that the name of the drowned man was William Allen. It was claimed that he fell off a vessel opposite Pell's Landing on Thursday afternoon. The statement of the Captain will be laid before the jury. The story that the deceased was murdered is considered ridiculous.

What Certain Pot Fishermen Do.

A correspondent of THE FREEMAN at Ellenville writes: "I saw in THE FREEMAN recently an article about 'old-time fishing with nets.' It is not an 'old-time' custom only. It is done every summer yet in the town of Wawarsing by parties in Ellenville, Port Ben and Kerhonkson. There are others also who say they go 'spearing' fish and eels at night with torchlights. They are generally provided with sea-net and the 'spearing' is only a blind. They catch trout, bass and other game fish."

As Related by the Pupils.

One of the pupils of Ulster Academy here on Monday was apprehensive that she would be unable to pass the Regents' examination in Caesar. While she slept that night she dreamed, and the questions to be asked, she says, were outlined so vividly that she distinctly remembered them. Next day, having this advantage, she studied hard and when the questions were handed her on Wednesday she passed a creditable examination.

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT.

When "Loving Friend" J. Dewitt Wrote Concerning the Longest Week He Had "Seen in Ten Years' Time"—A Lonesome Man Who Took a Woman's Advice, Etc.—Prisoners Arraigned in Oyer and Terminer.

In Circuit Court here the case of Elizabeth B. Bruyn vs. Jacob Russell, Executor, was continued yesterday and to-day.

A feature in the case was the introduction of a letter, which it was stated had been written by Jacob DeWitt, who gave the note, to the plaintiff. It reads as follows:

Dear Libbie: I came past your house yesterday thinking to get sight of you. It was too late to stop. I wanted to tell you about our trip on the mountain to the mountain house. I couldn't leave to-day. They all clear out on Sunday and I can't get back yet. I think I had better go some week day. I will have to go to Ellenville to-morrow, so you can look for me any day after that. I don't know if you were at Myra's or at Ellenville. Libbie, this has been the longest week I have seen in ten years. Loving friend, J. DeWitt.

I will drop in the office on my way up so you can get it at either place. Dear Libbie, I am taking your advice when I am lonesome to write to you. Don't think what prison the little letters have been to me that you sent me last George. Don't think of going away from Russell's while I live. The very thought of your going away would be too much for me. I am writing more than I expected to do when I commenced. I will be over as early as I can. From your loving friend, Jacob DeWitt.

Witnesses were examined to show that Jacob DeWitt had been in the habit of calling on Mrs. Bruyn. John Blanshan, the plaintiff's brother, who worked at the same place as DeWitt, testified that he was acquainted with Jacob DeWitt. DeWitt died January 17, 1885, at the age of 70 years. "He visited Mrs. Bruyn's house repeatedly in the fall and summer of 1884. He met her in the parlour and dining room. On October 29, 1884, [The date of the note.] I saw DeWitt and talked with him. I was working on the road and DeWitt came up the road and went to the house with a horse and wagon. When he went away Mrs. Bruyn came out to the door with him. They walked to the gate together." The witness said he remembered the date because he chatted down the time. He worked on the road on a horse in the house stable. Solomon Vandemark, who worked at Mrs. Bruyn's, also saw DeWitt on the day that Blanshan saw him. Byron Kortright, Lewis B. Stevens and Mahlon Black testified that they saw DeWitt at Kerhonkson on the day that Jacob DeWitt got very much excited talking politics. Among the witnesses who testified were George D. Lydecker, C. W. Devo, James W. Russell, Goldrough Garrison and Cornelius Kortright.

Argument upon the question whether or not photographic exhibits, offered by defendant, should be allowed in evidence, were made by Judge Edwards decided not to admit them.

This afternoon the case was opened on the part of the defendant. Witnesses were called to testify that the signature to the note was "Jacob DeWitt." The first of these witnesses was John T. DeWitt, brother of Jacob DeWitt.

COURT NOTES.

Some amusement was created yesterday when the question came up whether the Court should limit the number of witnesses called as experts to 13 on each side in the note case. One lawyer said it was an unfortunate number. Another lawyer, however, said he belonged to a club of 13 members whose object was to conquer this superstition he should favor 13. Judge Edwards said that he would fix the number at 13.

Judge Edwards has adjourned the short cause calendar until the second Friday.

It Costs Less.

On the question of real economy Hood's Sarsaparilla is so far ahead of other preparations as to place them entirely out of the race as competitors. Here are facts in regard to this popular medicine, easily susceptible of conclusive proof: 1. Hood's Sarsaparilla costs the manufacturer more than any other competing preparation, because it is more highly concentrated and contains more real medicinal value. 2. It costs the jobber more, as a consequence of the fact just stated. 3. It costs the Retail Druggist more, for the same reason—as can easily be learned by inquiry. Hence the desire of some retailers to sell their own preparation, which costs them less, and for which they get the same price, thus making more money. But 4. It costs the Consumer less than any other medicine, because of its greater concentrated strength and the quantity in each bottle, and because it is the only preparation of its kind that can truly be said, "100 Doses One Dollar."

That the people appreciate this is shown by the fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla has the Largest Sale of any sarsaparilla or blood purifier. It possesses peculiar merit and effects wonderful cures.

A Point for You.

When you buy a medicine, you want the best. Ask for Hood's Sarsaparilla, and insist upon having it. Do not let any argument or person's influence you to buy what you do not want. Be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"Last spring I was completely fagged out. My strength left me and I felt sick and miserable all the time, so that I could hardly attend to my business. I procured one bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it cured me." R. C. Bessie, Editor Enterprise, Belleville, Mo.
